

Design your own Virtual-Reality Bedroom

In Val Rutt's story The Race for the Lost Keystone Kate and Phil stay with their Great Aunt Elizabeth and she has arranged for her scientific advisor Harold Baker to design the children's bedrooms. Harold knows that by using virtual reality anything is possible. What would you choose to have in your bedroom?

From The Race for the Lost Keystone page 61

Kate settled down each night in a luxurious bed beneath a blossoming apple tree, and she was lulled to sleep by the sound of a gentle waterfall cascading into her very own pool.

Phil's hammock was slung between two prairie trees beside a corral where his palomino pony softly whinnied a morning greeting.

Describe your virtual-reality bedroom here and draw a picture of it in the space above.

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....